

WHAT IS CLAIMED:

✓1. Prepared or extemporaneously prepared injectable microfoam for therapeutic uses characterized in that the microfoam is prepared with any sclerosing agent.

2. Injectable microfoam for therapeutic uses, according to claim 1, characterized in that the sclerosing substance is polydocanol.

10

3. Injectable microfoam for therapeutic uses, according to claim 1, characterized in that the sclerosing substance is sodium tetradecyl sulfate.

15

4. Injectable microfoam for therapeutic uses, according to claim 1, characterized in that the sclerosing substance is a hypertonic glucostated or glucosaline solution.

5. Injectable microfoam for therapeutic uses, according to claim 1, characterized in that the <sup>sclerosing</sup> substance used is chromated glycerol.

20

6. Injectable microfoam for therapeutic uses, according to claim 1, characterized in that the <sup>sclerosing</sup> substance used is ethanolamine oleate.

25

7. Injectable microfoam for therapeutic uses, according to claim 1, characterized in that the <sup>sclerosing</sup> substance used is sodium morrhuate.

30

8. Injectable microfoam for therapeutic uses, according to claim 1, characterized in that the <sup>sclerosing</sup> substance used is any iodated solution.

6

9. The use in phlebology of an injectable microfoam prepared in accordance with claim 1.

10. The use in phlebology of an injectable microfoam 5 prepared in accordance with claim 2.

11. The use in phlebology of an injectable microfoam prepared in accordance with claim 3.

10 12. The use in the treatment of esophageal varices of an injectable microfoam prepared in accordance with claim 1.

13. The use in the treatment of esophageal varices of an injectable microfoam prepared in accordance with claim 2.

15 14. The use in the treatment of esophageal varices of an injectable microfoam prepared in accordance with claim 3.

20 15. The use in proctology of an injectable microfoam prepared in accordance with claim 1.

16. The use in proctology of an injectable microfoam prepared in accordance with claim 2.

25 17. The use in proctology of an injectable microfoam prepared in accordance with claim 3.

18. The use in angiology of an injectable microfoam prepared in accordance with claim 1.

30 19. The use in angiology of an injectable microfoam prepared in accordance with claim 2.

20. The use in angiology of an injectable microfoam 35 prepared in accordance with claim 3.